

CREATING A JUNGLE QUIZ

Creating a jungle-themed quiz

There are many ways you could create a jungle-themed quiz. We offer the below as a few suggestions to get you started. You may wish to keep the same way all through the week or change it daily.

1. Have leaf shapes with different scores written on the back. Children choose a leaf to get their score.
2. Put rings of coloured cord around a tree, dividing it into ten segments. Each team could have a marker which moves up the tree, hooking onto the cords, as they gain more points. The team which reaches the top first wins.
3. Have a soft toy monkey sitting on top of a bucket. Children get three coconuts (balls) to throw at the monkey, trying to knock him off the bucket, getting points for each time they succeed.
4. Have a number of different 'vines' (cords) of different lengths under a bucket with one end of each sticking out. Each time a child answers correctly, they choose a vine and pull it out. Each team ties their 'vines' together and the team with the longest vine at the end wins.
5. Have a cut-out lion's head with a large open mouth. Children get three balls to 'feed the lion' and get points for each one which goes in.
